The Opera in Milwankee.

A rar tr at was off-red to the music loving public of Milwauket on Thursday evening I: wis the representation of the favorite Opera, Nount, by our Musical Society, with new con times are ery, a full chorus and a powerful or chest a. The Opera has been in rehearsal some two morths, and public expectation was on tiptoo for its production. Accordingly, a very numerous and brilliant audience filled Young's Hall on Thursday evening, to hear and judge the first performance. It is no exaggeration to say that this was a traum; h throughout, which would have done hoors to the New York Academy of Music Indeed so far as the Orchestra and Chorus were concerned, we doubt whether the performance could have been surpassed, if equalled, in any city on this Continent. It would be unfair, of course, to apply to an amaleur performance those strict rules of criticism to which a professional one would be amenable. And yet even the severest critic must have derived satisfaction and delight from the generally excellent style in which the miding parts of the Opera were sus tuned and could not have refused the roced of ne qual fi d approbation to the noble charge and th well-Billed and well-conducted orchestra The az luons character of Norma, was admira bly sustained by Miss Hivres Hi was no slight indertaking to ; lay this part before a discriming to g though indulgent audience, many of whom had seen and heard De Viers, S effenous Parodi, the first town r ris and other operatio stars of the first teaguitude in , in a rate of the the same character. Yet Miss Hivrze stood this to pound to resist severe to twell and repeatedly called down the - t be trem i done, house by the impromined energy of her acting, the Democration and the specified or discreteres with which she i of the People give her music Mrs Manten as Adalgues, sur-1 ! o been, and are, presed an I desighted oven those who approceated to the full her rare musical talents and had anticipatod everything from her impersonation She looked played and sang the part of Adalgies better than it h sever I can our fortune to hear it done in New York or mywhere else. The well known d at in the third of between Norma and Adalr and waters after some of | 2 an, who executed with a sweetness taste and precision, which furry electrified the audience -Mr Birniamiy as the Roman Proconsul, did ful natice to his part. He was handsomely dressed and his sweet sympathetic voice was heard to great advantage | Day coully was this the case in tie benutiful trie with Kotma and Adalgua i the stond act Mr Grassing, as Oroveso made a noble High Pirest his glorious bass voice filling the ball with its volume, and his excellent acting adding to its effect. The minor parts were well ti led, and, as we have already so if the orchestra and charie were perfect. Too much praise enamed be awarded to Mr. Balares the accompassion m testro of the Society, for the thorough manner to which the Opera has been rehearsed, and the Thurston. Loure were some few drawbacks to the comthe ortoyment of the audience. The gas, as too olica happens in Young's Hall, "interto tter" once or twice during the evening. The stage is too small for operatio performances, and the choin; was acconveniently crowded. The bencies too all being on the same levelatis al with oit and at times impossible for those acted is the contro and back part of the hall, to Hall its 16 though excellent for many public purpose is very insufficiently ventilated and not in 51 and Democracy. It is no exaggeration to say that this was a trium; h throughout, which would have done honor to the New York Academy of Music Indeed so far as the Orchestra and Chorus were concerned, we doubt whether the performance could have been surpassed, if equalled, in any city on this Continent. It would be unfair, of course, to apply to an amaleur performance those -trict rules of crineism to which a professional one would be amenable. And yet even the severiat critic must have derived astisfaction and debight from the generally excellent style in witch the lording parts of the Opera were sus tuned and could not have refused the reced of nt qual fi d approbation to the noble charus and th well-Julled and well-conducted orchestra The ar luous character of Norma was admira-
